THE SPIRIT OF PARTYING PAST or HOUSEPARTY REVISITED DEPT:

Having trudged through a long week of plant trips, hour quizzes, etc., to the minor prominence of another weekend we pause to look back with longing at the gay, mad whirl of Fall Houseparty, now fading into memory for another year. It was not so much gay and mad for the Gryphons, as simply unhectic and quietly companionable. The cocktail and post dance parties were highly successful in propagating a continual flow of pleasant conversation, sufficiently spiced with wit and humor, and in promoting that intermingling of personalities which can be the most fascinating aspect of a party. The Saturday night blast sent up considerably less of a mushroom cloud than expected; the Gryphon party became a place of rest and refuge for those braving the elements to visit the parties on the hill, rather than a center of our own activity. On the whole, we feel the excellences more than balanced the lacks, to produce a customarily fine affair.

THE SPIRIT OF PARTYING FUTURE or

Picnic

Out where the babbling stream (babbling due to the beer poured into its flood) winds through Wassergass, and the greensward slopes gently to the foamy edge, there dwells the mighty Earl of Campbell, first member and leader of the Knights of the Round and Round Table. The good Earl has earnestly requested that all his Gryphonly Knights (casually armored) assemble upon the fair field of his jousting grounds after midday on the eighth of November, last day of the week, for a gay tourney. The Bill of Fare includes wieners, recently introduced internationally by the Duke of Frankfurt (and his Calypso few), baked beans, pop, and a few assorted sundries. Football, volleyball, and other machines of sport will be available to test the skill and might of those inclined to enter contest. The Knightly caravan leaves the Drinker parking lot at half-past noon on that day to journey to the appointed place. Tally-ho, pip-pip and ring-a-ding-ding!!

Buffalo Dance (but boy, are they clumsy!)

All the world will have a chance to attend the Gryphon dance on the Buffalo game weekend, November 15. Yes, we are opening our hearts to the public, who will have only to open their pockets and disburse slight pecuniary emolument. A University Center multi-purpose room will serve as receptive medium for the Dick Perry orchestra and accompanying dancing feet.

Tickets at the door
For one, also more;
A few cents a tick
To swing a sweet chick;
The music's a treat
For frisky feet.
My rhyme now must end,
Surely it doth offend!

Beginning with the following extract, No. 1, the PRICKED EAR will weekly endorse upon its pages a volume of memoirs relating to the title herebelow. The reader's patience is begged by its author, who shall maintain a most cordial and restrained tone in his series.

An Account of Incidents Relating to My Marriage with the Beautiful Lady Nancy - No. 1

The deplorably prosaic business of mixing lather in preparation for shavo had just been undertaken, when I was surprised by the most extraordinary interruption. A breathless little schoolfellow rapidly informed me that reports of pleasure and entertainment had been gathering substance during after-dinner chats at the Lord Gray Coffee-house, from whence the messenger had been sent. A visitor to our town from Dorsetshire, a certain Mr. Evans, had announced his collaboration with Messrs. Thomson, Stebbins, Lambert and Harmon in promulgating an unusual event concerning our honorable contemporaries, the Society of Gryphonia.

The coffee-house conversationalists and their associates, the young intruder continued, have provided for a delightful and musical seiree, the evening of 22 November, concurrent with the annual Lafayette day festivities. Prospective party participants might be substantially furthered in the aim of attending if they immediately (Wednesday, the fifth day of the new month) despatch themselves to the presence of Mr. Evans, Mr. Fowler, or Mr. Stobbins, all of whom may be reached in their lodgings at the Inner Temple. These gentlemen, he fervently avowed, will serve in the capacity of securing lady companions for that evening.

The good fellow's final words in my attendance described a sextet of some sort, his exact words elude me -- oh yes: "dixieland music" and also "slow" would be their offering. The location for the party shall be made public anon.

As the impetuous lad took his leave, a shivering ill humour suddenly took hold of me, for I just then was struck with the realization that the party was hardly more than a fortnight hence. I hesitated for only a few seconds before hastening my man to make ready the carriage for a trip to the quarters of Lady Nancy, who I prayed was free the 22nd.

RE-UPHOLSTERING THE COUNSELORS' COUCH DEPT: (Material by Fozard of Dravo)

A number of men did not arrive at any of the three monthly house meetings held last week. I suggest therefore that the following men see a fellow counselor about getting a summary of the happenings. The persons who should do this include Messrs. Adams, Blanchard, Eyer, Harmon, LaPara, Peinado, Perneski, Quay, Rotber, Schickedanz, Tamulis, and Wismer. The purpose of these meetings is to give each of you an opportunity to discuss any particular problems in counseling which you feel you would like to share with your fellow counselors. It also gives me an opportunity to discuss your problems as you see them and to have closer contact with each of you.

There will be another training meeting of the group counselors this Friday, Nov. 7, at 4 PM, in the Student Counseling Center, Christmas-Saucon Hall. Drs. Edmiston and Mancuso will preside. Please be prompt. Don't forget this meeting!! It is very difficult to arrange a time when all of us can get together and fit this into the schedules of Drs. Edmiston and Mancuso.

Chuck Culver and Jack Tamulis have a list of six tutors to cover most of the Freshman courses. You will shortly receive a list of the names, an accompanying cover letter, and a couple of advertisements. Chuck and Jack are arranging for radio time and newspaper space to advertise the tutoring program. All inquiries and suggestions should be directed to them.

Ed Thomson has been planning an experiment on a supervised study period arrangement. This would involve a group of freshman working together on the same subject under the general guidance of a counselor. Ed is going to develop this idea at the next Gryphon meeting. I think this is an idea that should especially interest the graduate student counselors.

OVERHEAD DEPT:

Shingles (and tar provide useless shelter at high cost. Invest your hard-earned money in our Homes Without Roofs Development Corp; we'll save you buckets of mazuma) for old members still with us will be available at the monthly meeting next week. Those for the new Gryphons are not yet ready.

The inhabitant of 322 Richards, one P. Niiler, would like all Gryphons desirous of obtaining Gryphon keys to contact him by Wednesday, 5 November.

THE GRYPHON ICEBOX or STEWARD'S FOLLY:

Social Chairman B. Fowler announces the appointment of Roy Briggs to the position of steward, which was created to evaluate and enumerate the Gryphon possessions. It is hoped that by having an inventory of what we own and where it is stored, planning for parties will be simplified. It will be Roy's job to check after each party to assure that everything is put back in its assigned place.

HURRAY FOR STECK! or ANYONE FOR BASKETBALL?DEPT:

The Gryphon athletes, long idle, now have an opportunity to flex their muscles. Yes, that's right! The P.E. Dept. has finally found a league for us. We are now eligible to compete with Taylor, Price and Leonard Hall in all intramural events. It's too late for football, but basketball, bowling, volleyball and the turkey trot are just getting organized. Anyone interested in competing in any of these events, please fill out the form at the end of the page and send it via the campus mails to Bill Bradbury, Box 904.
